From The Quills of The Editors

The conventional perception of a college or department magazine is that, it contains a list of activities conducted by the institution or department, during the year. A few messages by the heads, a few compilations, articles, sketches, a few cartoons and jokes in lighter vein etc also find place in these issues. We concede this issue is no exception to the above. We at the Department of Commerce, however firmly opine that this issue is not just a list of events. It is an epitome of not only the aspirations but it is also a source of joy to our young student friends. A mere mention of name, or a small photo may mean nothing to us, the teachers but it goes a long way to kindle students' creativity, organizing ability and zeal.

A serious lacuna that we are realizing in our education system is that it focuses more on the theory and less on 'Skill Development'. This is a proverbial case of one taking a course in distance mode, to learn swimming. Our government also, having realized this, is encouraging skill development in our educational institutions. We are glad that all our activities compiled here enhance our students' skills such as communication, interaction with people, scheduling activities, budgeting etc.

We the teachers just stand behind and guide our students to organize these activities. In this process, it is amazing to find that our students exhibit such a high degree of enthusiasm, talent, energy, willingness, understanding and most importantly maturity. If we create a conducive atmosphere, our young friends will prove that they are the best in the world.

This progression is also a very good learning experience to us, the teachers.

May the magazines such as this along with the activities compiled, encourage and provide a spring board to our students to become highly skilled, to take our nation to where it deserves to belong and most desirably, become good human beings.

We humbly dedicate this issue to the real progress of our students

We also take this as an opportunity to express our gratitude to our management, principal, vice-principal, the teaching staff of all the other departments, administration staff and the most precious – our students.

Message from the Principal

I am happy to note that the teachers and students of Commerce Department are bringing out their annual magazine – Abhigyaan. This volume covers Chakravyuh, the inter-collegiate management fest consisting of events like best manager, moot court, marketing, finance, stock market, treasure hunt and human resources.

This magazine features Parivarthan – an inter-class series of competitions organized by the fourth semester B.Com students.

The other feature of this magazine is Vanijya-Vedi, the Commerce exhibition. The students exhibited various models covering banking, insurance, stock exchange, taxation, marketing etc.

This magazine also features the various other activities organized by the department such as guest lectures, industrial visits, business plan, students and teachers achievements etc.

I wish them well, congratulate and thank both the students and staff for bringing out this magazine.

MESSAGE FROM THE MES MANAGEMENT

The Commerce Department of MES Degree College is ready with its Magazine – ABHIGYAN-2018-19, to include and show-case the year-long activities of the department. In terms of number of students, Commerce stream is the largest in the college, and it is believed that the students have been exposed to a wide variety of commerce-related activities, to not only provide them with beyond the curriculum knowledge but also to expose them to the applications and prospects of the subject. A departmental magazine is a useful medium to draw the talents of students – in their writing skills, subject-based applied knowledge as also their innovative and creative abilities in other related areas of interest. The rapid industrial changes and continuously-developing information technology and advanced skill-oriented global economy happens to be according to business friendly and incidental. The foundation of a stable in a constantly developing commerce and business industry in a country is the basic support system of education and training setup. The significance of commerce sector is raised in the contemporary age. The economy of every country comprises mainly of three sectors viz-agriculture, industry and service sector. The service sector in economy is commerce. One of the objectives of commerce education must be to create wealth useful for the society. Since Commerce is also the basis of utilization of natural resources, Commerce education is necessary for the economic, social and political development of a country. Further, as Commerce is an integral part of human life, and society and commerce are very closely related to have a profound mutual impact, it is hoped that the magazine has attracted articles and other contents relevant not only to the advancement of commerce understanding but also to expose the readers to consider commerce as the foundation for national economic development.

The MES management lauds the efforts of the Commerce Department Faculty and Students for bringing out this volume of the magazine, and records its best wishes for a fruitful year ahead.

The work is progressing and we intend completing the same and publishing all the research papers during the odd sem 2019-20.

STUDENT SUPPORT ACTIVITY

An article on a One-day workshop by Toastmasters International.

On the beautiful morning of 11th May 2019, a group of 56 students gathered in the conference hall, with the enthusiasm to learn few things which are taught less, but spoken of quite often.

We owe this tremendous experience to Miss Shwetha Mahesh, an enthusiastic member of this club, who made this workshop possible. Mrs Swathi Karnad, a lecturer from the department of commerce, who extended her complete support, is the reason behind spreading the word of this workshop.

Three sessions were arranged for the day- impromptu speaking, nuances of public speaking and how to ace interviews. The reason why we owe our experiences to Miss Shwetha is because of the speakers she introduced to the students. Each one had their own way of making students understand and interact. The best sentence, which we heard over and again, was “Today, there is no mistake, because everyone is learning.” And surprisingly, all the trainers told the students the same.

The first session was conducted by Mr Pranab Singh. He decided to train the students on impromptu speaking. The way he taught was pretty realistic. He made sure that each one of us was ready to get rid of our fear and be prepared for an impromptu speech, irrespective of whether we get to speak or not.

The second trainer was Mr Kumaran M Pethi. He chose to train us regarding the nuances of public speaking. The students were taken aback when he gave attention to detail. When it comes to public speaking, it isn't only speaking in public- it includes a lot such as the way of walking, self-presentation, body posture and many more. This is attention to detail. He knew we all could talk, but taught us how to do it the right way. Nevertheless, his session was very light, comical and interactive.

The final trainer for the day was Mr T K Ramesh. His motive was to prepare us to be able to ace our interviews. He gave pointers and practical experiences on how to and how not to go to an interview. Throughout the session, he embedded one line in our heads “Stay ready”.

This one day workshop taught us so many things that we had noticed but ignored, things we never knew, things we failed to learn. This workshop consisted of a bunch of requisites to survive the world with grace.

PRESENTATIONS BY STUDENTS

HOD Dr. TG Janardhan initiated a new concept where students make small presentation on the topic of their choice at the end of each class for 5 minutes. This gives an opportunity to students to express their view points on certain social topics. This also helps them to overcome the inhibitions in public speaking. Students used to eagerly wait for making presentations and enthusiastically took part in this initiative.

Following is the list of students, the topic on which they spoke and a few photos.
